The building is of brick, two stories in height, and consists of a series of stores. The upper rooms were formerly connected by doors which have since been closed. The sidewalks in front of these buildings were originally covered by canopies or porches supported by columns at the curb.

The first legislative assembly of Missouri was held here in the second story rooms in 1821, upon admission of Missouri as a State. (RENTED FROM MR. PECKAS)

The first annual message by the first Governor, Alexander McNair, was given here on November 6, 1821.
